HUD OIG Optimizes Transparency

WASHINGTON, D.C. – The HUD OIG published a new Media Kit to ensure the media and the public have timely and relevant information on our efforts to provide effective and efficient oversight of government resources.

“We strongly pursue our responsibility to keep the public informed of our efforts to provide effective and efficient oversight of government resources,” said David A. Montoya, Inspector General. “A strong ally of HUD OIG, the media helps to ensure our important work is highlighted for all those interested in government oversight.”

By updating our Media Kit, we strive to remain open and transparent to the media on the valuable service the HUD OIG provides to the Department, Congress, and the American public. The kit provides highlights from our Semiannual Report to Congress, infographics of our recent accomplishments, and a quick overview of the organization.

About the Inspector General

Mr. David A. Montoya was sworn in as Inspector General for the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) on December 1, 2011. The Department’s mission “is to create strong, sustainable, inclusive communities and quality, affordable homes for all.” The mission of the Office of Inspector General is to promote the integrity, efficiency, and effectiveness of HUD programs to assist the Department in meeting its mission. As Inspector General, Mr. Montoya is the senior official responsible for audits, evaluations, investigations, and oversight efforts relating to HUD’s programs and operations.
